1. A major reorganization is under way at the Zentrallaboratorium (RFT) and Funkwerk Köpenick. The two firms are being merged under the name of Funkwerk Köpenick. The new organization will no longer be responsible to the RFT but to the Ministry for Machine Construction under Minister Gerhard Ziller. The new chief of the organization is Gaebler.
2. The SAG Kabel order has arrived and, among others as yet unascertained, includes the following:
 - a. Pulse generator radar (Impulsgerät) working at temperatures of minus 40° centigrade to plus 70° centigrade for use with all normal voltages and batteries.
 - b. New sound analysers
 - c. New spectrometers
3. Various department chiefs of the RFT Zentrallaboratorium commented on the fact that the Russians have become very interested in transmitter Zwilling and have expressed a desire to obtain one for themselves. The code name Zwilling is not to be used any longer on any documentation, but a design similar to the design below is to be used.

4. High tension condensers have become scarce, Source believes that they had previously been procured from the West. Copper is in very short supply, as well as dynamo sheet metal. High-frequency metal (Hochfrequenzeisen) is expected to be in short supply in the near future. It is reported that, so far, old German Army stores had been used, but that these are running low.
